MURDOCH COIN CABINET.

END OF AN HISTORIC COLLECTION.

Yesterday the fateful little ivory hammer in Wellington-street fell on the final lot in the magnificent cabinet of coins formed by the late Mr. John G. Murdoch. Disregarding Roman and Greek coins, it is the best and most extensive brought together by a private individual in this or maybe any other country, and it holds the record at auction.

During the last three days the 414 remaining lots in the series of English historical medals, with some Scottish coins of note, came under the hammer for a total of £2,493 10s. We may mention a large medal for Talavera, 1809, awarded to General Alexander Campbell, £126; a British Empire medal in gold, 1901, £102.

Mr. Murdoch was an eager collector for twenty years or more, and, having the wherewithal to buy, rarely missed an opportunity of securing a desirable example. He was one of the principal supporters of the Montagu sale. Many of the most important coins showed considerable rises in value.

Details of the sales of the various sections may be summarised:

Section	No. of Days.	No of Lots.	Total. £ s. d.
Ancient British, Anglo-Saxon, and English Coins –
Part I. To end of James I.	5	772	6,829 13 0
Part II. Charles I.—Anne	6	919	6,596 10 6
Part III. George I.—Victoria	5	718	4,907 0 0
Part IV. British and Irish Tokens	2	254	1,565 16 6
Scottish and Anglo-Gaelic Coins	3	406	2,639 19 6
Coins and Tokens of British Colonies and Dependencies, America, and European Continent	9	1,233	4,290 5 6
English Historical Medals—
Henry VI.—George II.	5	670	5,634 8 0
George III.—Victoria, and Coins of Scotland	3	414	——
	38	5,386	34,952 3 0
Works of Art	2	310	3,663 10 0
	40	5,696	38,620 13 6

The only comparable cabinet is the Montagu, which gave the following results: Sections I.-V. of the British coins made respectively £4,221 8s. 6d., £5,660 4s., £8,783 16s., £1,812 19s., and £2,125, or £22,603 7s. 6d. in all. The medals fetched £5,232 19s. We thus get a total for the Montagu coins, exclusive of Greek and Roman, of £27,836 6s. 6d., which leaves a balance in favour of the Murdoch of rather more than £7,000. Of course, with the Greek series at £11,786 16s., and the Roman at something like £19,000, the balance would be weighed down in the contrary direction. Where are the Montagus and Murdochs of to-day?
